

Flushable Wipes

Please do not flush so-called disposal wipes down the toilet and into our sewer pipes. Instead, dispose of these wipes as garbage, as you would dispose of a disposable diaper or feminine hygiene product.

A large mass of these wipes was found in one of our main drains after a resident reported a drain blockage. These wipes have also been the subject of several class action lawsuits involving municipal sewer providers across the country. The claims are that the wipes do not break up as advertised and are causing major problems at sewer and cleaning stations. The wipes were blamed for the 15-ton "Fatberg," the size of a bus, which was recently discovered in the London sewer system. It was made up of congealed cooking grease and "flushable" wipes.
